Quick Treatment After Theft

Q. I'm a kidney patient who must go to UCLA twice a week to have my blood purified on an artificial kidney machine. Last week, a thief stole my purse containing my Cal Med card and my UCLA clinic admittance card. I need these cards desperately so I can continue to get treated. Can you help? R. A., Long Beach

A. Yes. Margaret Zlatnik, assistant administrative officer at the UCLA Medical Clinic, has made arrangements with the admissions office for your treatments even though you don't have your card. She says you can ask for another outpatient clinic card after your next treatment. Louise Spratt, supervising social worker for the Aid to the Permanently Disabled, says a duplicate Medical Aid card for August is in the mail to you to tide you over until your September card arrives this week.

Wild Goose Chase Wasn't

Q. I'm interested in sailing and have begun a collection of pictures of famous yachts and racers. I'd like to know where to get photographs of the current America's Cup defender Intrepid and John Wayne's power yacht, Wild Goose. B. B., Long Beach

A. Finding a photo of the Intrepid, the 12-meter sloop skippered by Bus Moshbacher which will carry U.S. hopes in this month's America's Cup races against Australia's Dame Pattie, was easy. But the Wild Goose chase was nearly that. Persistence won out, though, and a photo of the 136-foot-long converted Navy minesweeper used by actor Wayne and his family for cruises in Mexican and Caribbean waters is on the way to you along with two of the Intrepid.

Visit Finds Children OK

Q. I have four children who are living in Millers, Md., with their father, my former husband. I have custody of the children, but have not been able to bring them out here because of illness. My mother visited them recently and told me they're being badly neglected. I'm worried to death. Mrs. J. J. M., Long Beach

A. After receiving a call from ACTION LINE, Louise Rainer, deputy director of the Baltimore County Welfare Department, Towson, Md., sent a social worker on an unannounced visit to your former husband's home. The worker reported the children are well and don't seem to be neglected in any way — a babysitter looks after them while their father works. The principal at the children's school says they have adequate, warm clothing and no apparent health problems. If you wish further help, write Mrs. Rainer at the county office.

Wanted: Toothbrushes, Help

Q. Several months ago, I read about a dentist who goes to Mexico to treat the impoverished villagers. I'm a nurse and would like to help him. Can you find him for me? J. S., Long Beach

A. Yes. The Good Samaritan is Dr. John Ronnau, a dentist who practices in Long Beach and teaches oral surgery at the University of Southern California. He told ACTION LINE he'd be glad to have your help and will drop you a line. In the people-to-people project, Ronnau and a few advanced dentistry students fly down to remote Mexican villages once a month. "We give free emergency dental treatment and try to educate the people about hygiene. The people have been beautiful in their response to us," he says. The dentist's main problems are obtaining new toothbrushes for the people and finding private pilots willing to transport volunteers at no charge. Ronnau can be reached at 6715 E. Seaside Ave., Long Beach.

Hand Me a Wrench, Dear

Q. My daughter has just purchased a used car and would like to learn something about how it works. Can you tell me if there's a "powder puff" auto mechanics class offered in the area? E. E. T., Long Beach

A. For women who can't tell a crankshaft from a piston, the Centinela Valley YWCA, 4632 W. Century Blvd., Inglewood, will have a weekly class in basic auto mechanics beginning Oct. 12. Joseph Giorgianni, an instructor at Los Angeles Trade Technical College, will teach the care and maintenance of a car in an all-female class beginning at 7:30 p.m. Fee for the eight-week course is $16, plus a Y membership charge of $5. An open house and registration will be held Oct. 5. For more information, call Ruth Miller, Y secretary, at 678-2219.

SOUND OFF!

I've been a resident of the 1900 block of Daisy Avenue for the past 25 years. As most people in the city know, we are fortunate to have a grassy strip running down the middle of the wide street, complete with trees which are decorated each Christmas. In the past few years, signs have sprung up reading "No ball playing," "No golfing" and "No dogs allowed." Now this is a quiet street with few children and there certainly isn't much need for these signs. They've become eyesores and are probably the result of a grouchy complaining to a well-meaning city council. I'm afraid soon we won't be able to enjoy our avenue park as we should, and I'd like to suggest that the signs be taken down, or at least their number reduced.

REACTION

Response to an ACTION LINE question regarding federal insurance here at the Long Beach Naval Shipyard prompts me to give further information. Many people think an employee over 50 years old can't be insured — this isn't true. An employee past 50 is eligible for insurance if he's never previously waived it. However, once an employee waives insurance, he can't again be federally insured after reaching 50 as stated in the waiver. Employees under 50 years of age who waive insurance must wait one year before applying again and must have medical proof of insurability. James T. Houston, employment superintendent, U.S. Naval Shipyard, Long Beach.

Kirschke Witness Recants

Changes Story of Fight Under Defense Probing
By SHERM WILLIAMS

Stormy arguments and at least one slugfest between Jack Kirschke and his murdered wife Elaine were recounted Friday in Los Angeles Superior Court as Asst. Atty. Gen. Albert Harris began documenting the case against the suspended Los Angeles County deputy district attorney.

Kirschke is charged with shooting his wife and her lover, Orville William Drankhan, in the bedroom of Kirschke's apartment in the Naples area of Long Beach last April.

James A. Miller, 22, of Glendale—one of two men who discovered the partly nude body of Mrs. Kirschke, 43, and the body of Drankhan, 41—responded to Harris' questions by saying he heard Kirschke and his wife engaged in repeated arguments in their apartment. On one occasion, he said, he saw 45-year-old Kirschke strike his wife.

LATER, UNDER cross-examination by defense attorney Albert C. S. Ramsey, Miller recanted a bit. He said that while he never saw the Kirschke couple engaged in face-to-face argument, he did once see the defendant start a blow that, if completed, should have struck Mrs. Kirschke on the upper part of her body.

By day's end—with a full day consumed in questioning what was expected to be a minor witness in a list of 38 Harris will march before the jury—indications were the trial might exceed the six weeks already predicted for it.

There was no question who Harris was trying. He was trying Kirschke.

But as Ramsey lanced in question after question to James Miller, who found the bodies of Elaine Terry Kirschke and Orville William Drankhan last April 9, it became apparent he too was placing someone on trial.

HIS TARGET as the day waned was obviously the handling by Long Beach police of the case.

Miller had testified that when he approached the window through which he saw the half-nude body of Mrs. Kirschke, he noticed a window screen lying on the ground. There was no screen on the window.

In his cross-examination, Ramsey elicited from Miller — a reserve deputy sheriff who said he had carefully avoided leaving any fingerprints or otherwise disturbing the scene of the crime

Reagan Set to Appeal Court Ban on Medi-Cuts

HOT DOGGIN' WITH HULA HOOPS

New twist to an old fad is demonstrated by Jeri Poppler, 15, of 3-64th Place (left) and Terri Eselun, 18, of 2061 Dawson Ave. as they work out for big surfing meet at Malibu this weekend, where hula hoops will be part of a special event.

Hurricane Reagan's 83 Vetoes Escape Whips Up Demos as Legislature Ends Big Surf

By GEORGE LAINE

Hurricane Lily isn't going to make an "in person" appearance in the Southland — but she is sending a stand-in.

Heavy southerly swells and treacherous riptides started arriving Friday along the Southland coast.

Newport Beach had surf at 10 to 12 feet and 84 persons were pulled from riptides; more than 50 per cent of the city's beach was closed to bathers.

At Huntington Beach and Huntington Beach State Park, similar conditions prevailed.

CORONA del Mar had a carbon copy of the Newport situation and Little Corona beach was off limits to swimmers with less than two swim fins.

The weatherman said the high surf and riptides would continue throughout the weekend.

Long Beach had neither the high surf nor the riptides that visited the more southerly beaches. But, life

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Legislature adjourned its first-ever veto session Friday after a week of fruitless, often bitter Democratic attempts to override Republican Gov. Reagan's vetoes.

Every one of Reagan's 83 vetoes remained intact when the Senate and Assembly ended the five-day session. It was set up last November when voters approved a constitutional amendment giving legislators a chance to override vetoes that came after the adjournment of the regular session.

A spokesman for Reagan said the freshman governor saw "happy the legislature saw fit to uphold his position on a number of vetoes he had made."

Democrats control the Assembly 42-38 and there's a 20-20 party split in the Senate, but Reagan's opponents fell far short of the two-thirds majority vote needed in both houses to override him.

The legislators expressed mixed feelings about the value of the veto session as they wrapped up the final business of months of work that started in January.

Senate President Pro

Tem Hugh M. Bruns, D-Fresno, told his colleagues in a final speech, "I would be less than frank if I told you I was sorry to see this session end."

As the final gavel neared in the Assembly, Democrat Kenneth Cory of Westmin-

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An 18-month study of whether increasing penalties actually decreases crime will be launched Wednesday at a public hearing by the Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee.

Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, said his committee will seek the advice and guidance of notable law enforcement, legal, correctional and university officials.

ster, a freshman legislator, declared it was "appropriate and fitting that this house be adjourned by inaction."

But the Assembly majority leader, Democrat George Zenovich of Fresno, said, "I think this five-day session is a good thing. I hope that eventually we will rise above it all, no matter who is in the corner office."

"Corner office" is Capitol parlance for the governor's office.

The last attempts to override any of Reagan's vetoes came in the Assembly Friday.

Democrats needed 12 Republican votes for a two-thirds majority of 54 in the 80-seat Assembly. They required seven GOP votes in the Senate for the two-thirds majority of 27.

The last-ditch Democratic assault was against vetoes of bills to create three more diagnostic centers for the mentally ill, to retired teachers and state employees, and to give a tax break to corporations which have training programs for the poor.

As before, Democrats concentrated on Reagan's economy program, aiming at vetoed bills that would have helped the poor, the retired and the mentally ill.

Reagan said it would have cost the taxpayers another $40 million in this year of state financial problems and higher taxes had he not vetoed the measures.

Perliss ruled in favor of Harvey Morris, a 43-year-old Modesto welfare recipient who says he has a bad back and needs surgery through Medi-Cal. He filed the suit against the cutbacks.

Two Trapped in Wilds 9 Days, Saved

Combined News Services

A prominent Hollywood screen writer and his son were rescued from a sandbar in the south fork of the San Joaquin River near Huntington Lake, Friday after they were spotted from a search helicopter.

Dwight Hauser, 56, and his 15-year-old son, Erich, were stranded for nine days without food, except for nine fish they caught with a homemade hook, and a few prunes. They were rescued by helicopter and taken to Fresno General Hospital.

Hauser, who lives at Lake Sherwood (Ventura County), wrote the screenplay for the Walt Disney production, "Ama Girls," which won an Academy award for documentary short subjects in 1959. He also was a 1958 winner at the Cannes Film Festival for a documentary on Portugal.

"We put out a help sign the first day and we built fires every night, and smoke fires, too," Hauser said. "We signaled every plane that went over — even jets — but nobody saw us."

JOSEPH L. ALIOTO
Seeks Shelley Post

SCRAMBLE

Mayor John F. Shelley of San Francisco, suffering from "complete exhaustion," withdrew Friday as a candidate for a second term.

Millionaire attorney Joseph L. Alioto, 51, promptly announced his candidacy for the nonpartisan race Nov. 7. He is a Democrat and long-time friend of Shelley. The only other announced candidate is Republican Harold D. Dobbs, a former supervisor who lost by 28,001 votes to Shelley in 1963. Shelley suffered a heart attack in 1958 when he was a congressman. His health has not been robust in recent years. Thursday he went to the hospital for a checkup. His doctors quickly warned him he would be courting death if he engaged in a rigorous campaign.

His withdrawal was the second surprise development of the race. State Sen. Eugene McAteer announced his candidacy last spring but died a few weeks later of a heart attack while playing handball.

MORAL ISSUE

Mrs. Eunice Shriver, warned Friday in Washington that the use of legalized abortion to prevent mental retardation could lead to a society in which scientists would decide who should have children and when people should die.

Mrs. Shriver, sister of President Kennedy, said that the Kennedy family foundation had joined in sponsoring the conference so that persons other than scientists would be brought into the decision-making process on abortion.

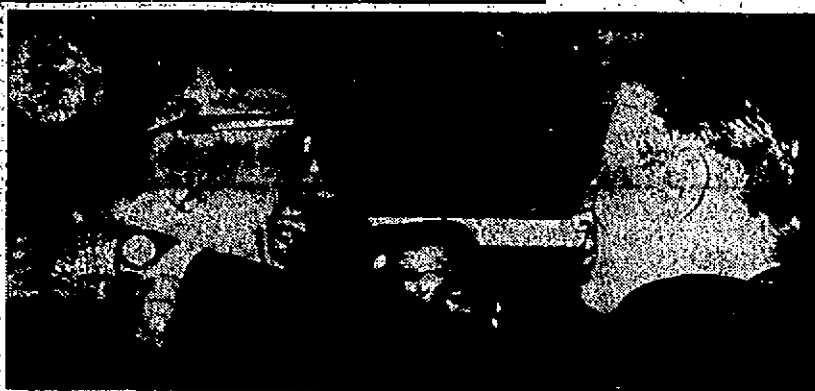

She said serious moral questions have been raised by medical advances that have made it feasible to use abortion as a remedy for mongolism or other birth defects.

If scientists are permitted to manipulate life in this manner, she argued, "Someone lacking in moral judgment will surely advocate euthanasia as part of the solution to the population explosion."

She said a decision might be made to "do away with the people over 65 who are ill and tired of living," and that a board of scientists might select which couples could have children on the basis of a genetic prognosis.

Romney Support
in Mich. Erodes

DETROIT — The Detroit News, which has backed Michigan Gov. George Romney in all his political campaigns, said Friday that Romney lacks the "essentials in the making of a president" and should give way to Nelson A. Rockefeller. In an editorial prepared for its Sunday editions, the News said it had concluded Romney is not fit to be president after hearing him say in a television interview this week that he had been "brainwashed" into supporting U.S. Vietnam policies by diplomats and the military. In Washington, where he was attending a meeting of the Republican National Committee, Romney laughed off the editorial, saying "that's very amusing."

Romney's brainwashing statement drew fire in other quarters. In Albany, N.Y., Sen. Robert F. Kennedy said the U.S. cannot afford a president "susceptible to being brainwashed by anyone." He said he thinks a presidential ticket of Gov. Rockefeller and California Gov. Ronald Reagan would be a "very strong" ticket. In Boise, Idaho, former Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater said he thought Romney's "political star is slipping" and predicted a Nixon-Reagan ticket in 1968. Meanwhile, the GOP committeemen in Washington formally approved Miami Beach, Fla., as the site of the 1968 GOP national convention starting Aug. 5.

Moonship Fails

PASADENA — Scientists Friday night said they decided to terminate Surveyor 5's trouble-plagued flight to the moon, putting it into orbit around the earth instead. The agonizing decision to abort Surveyor 5's lunar mission followed more than three hours of frantic efforts by scientists in California and Australia to save the spacecraft. Its mission to the moon was frustrated by a helium leak in its rocket engine fuel system. Calculations led scientists to conclude that the spacecraft was destined to destroy itself by crashing into the moon so they decided to put it into orbit around the earth instead.

Police Strike Ultimatum

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — A local judge is giving the city's fire and police men until 10 a.m. today to settle their wage dispute and return to work. About 90 per cent of the city's fire and police personnel walked off the job late Wednesday night when their demand for a wage increase was not met. The men say they are not striking but are attending job seminars. The judge said if the men are not back at work today "I will enter an order of injunction." He said he also would order Mayor Anthony B. Flak to evict Ohio's never used Ferguson Act, which prohibits strikes and work stoppages by public employees.

LSD Damage to Babies

BEAVERTON, Ore. — Three of four babies born to Portland mothers who took the hallucinatory drug LSD, have defective chromosomes. One of the babies has a chromosome that looks like those found in leukemia patients. Leukemia is a form of cancer. The Oregon Regional Primate Research Center said that in all 30 cases studied "we found an increasing breaking of chromosomes of those who took LSD in comparison with a random population."

Teachers' Sleep-In

DETROIT — Teachers strikes that have locked nearly 500,000 students out of their schools in Michigan threaten to run into next week. Lt. Gov. William Milliken said the problem was "critical." Teachers planned an all-weekend sleep-in at one school board office and one high school in suburban Detroit. Coaches in one city voted to scrap the entire high school athletic program. In New York, Mayor Lindsay said the city will seek a court injunction to prevent a mass resignation of teachers on Monday.

Huge March Rumored

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Civil rights demonstrators from seven states were summoned to Milwaukee today for what was termed a "gigantic" weekend rally supporting the NAACP's Milwaukee Youth Council campaign for a city open-housing law. There were insistent but unconfirmed reports that the rally at 3 p.m. Sunday would precede a massive march into Milwaukee's virtually all-white South Side.

B52s Hit DMZ,
North Vietnam

SAIGON — B52 Stratofortresses made one of their infrequent raids on North Vietnam Friday and followed it up today with a triple blow against Communist rocket and artillery positions in the demilitarized zone. U.S. fighter-bombers hit the Hanoi-Haiphong area for the first time in three days. About 100 miles south of the DMZ, Communist gunners attacked the big Da Nang air base early today with six Soviet-made 140mm rockets. U.S. headquarters said one American was killed and 11 wounded. U.S. Marines in South Vietnam prowled in the northern war zone seeking reinforced North Vietnamese whose buildup suggests they may be readying a new offensive. In Oslo, the Norwegian government announced it would allocate $20,000 for a Vietnam peace mission by two winners of the Nobel Peace prize — Philip Noel Baker of Britain and the Rev. Dominique George Pire, a Catholic priest from Belgium.

All sides in the conflict have agreed to receive the peacemakers.

Rusk Proposal Spurned

MOSCOW — In an initial Soviet reaction Friday, Tass rejected as "baseless" a U.S. statement of willingness to have the U.N. try to make peace for Vietnam. The official Soviet news agency also attacked what it called "alarming reports" of U.S. plans to clear an anti-infiltration corridor between North and South Vietnam. Referring to a statement by Secretary of State Dean Rusk that Washington is taking new steps to seek a U.N. contribution to Vietnam peace efforts, Tass commented: "He tried to present this baseless step of American diplomacy as a manifestation of Washington's striving for a peaceful settlement of the Vietnam problem."

Storm Perils Islands

MIAMI — Killer Hurricane Beulah, with eight persons dead in her wake, threatened Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands today after dumping flooding rains and tides on the Leeward Islands in the South Caribbean. At least eight persons were killed on the French West Indies island of Martinique. Martinique's capital city, Fort de France, was under 3.3 feet of water.

Church Snubs De Gaulle

KRAKOW, Poland — Charles de Gaulle worshiped at the church of ancient Polish kings Friday but Poland's Roman Catholic hierarchy sent only a vicar to greet the visiting French president. Karol Cardinal Wojtyla of Krakow, the country's second-ranking cardinal, was absent when Canon Kazimierz Figlewicz escorted De Gaulle into a chapel at Wawel Cathedral. Priests in the cathedral seemed embarrassed. Sources said Cardinal Wojtyla stayed away on the ground that De Gaulle had yielded to pressure from Poland's Communist leaders and had not arranged to meet Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński, the outspokenly anti-Communist Polish primate.

TROPIC OF CANCER author Henry Miller, 75, and Japanese singer and pianist Hoki Tokuda, 29, obtain marriage license Friday at Santa Monica. They plan to leave for Paris and cities in Sweden Sept. 18.

SUDDEN

The 38-year-old Countess of Strathmore was found dead in bed Friday at her historic home in Glamis Castle, Scotland, the setting of Shakespeare's "Macbeth."

The beautiful, dark-haired countess made headlines in 1958, when she married the 16th Earl of Strathmore, a cousin of Queen Elizabeth II. She met the earl when she nursed him through an illness at a clinic where she was a nursing sister.

"We are treating it as a sudden death," police said. "As far as we are concerned there are no suspicious circumstances." Sources said detectives were investigating the possibility of a drug overdose.

FREED

The Van Nuys district attorney's office Friday refused to issue a complaint on conspiracy or burglary charges against Jack (Murphy the Surf) Murphy and Alan Dale Kuhn, who stole the priceless "Star of India" sapphire from a New York museum in 1964. They were arrested last Aug. 31 in a plush Van Nuys motel.

ACCIDENTAL

Brian Epstein, who discovered and managed the Beatles, died from a "small fatal dose" of sleeping pills, a coroner's inquest in London said Friday. It ruled that the 32-year-old multimillionaire's death was "accidental."

RESUME

Pope Paul VI resumed a moderate workload Friday, apparently recovering satisfactorily from a stomach ailment that caused fever and nausea earlier this week. Private audiences still were restricted, however.

DISAPPOINTED

Linda McGill, a shapely 21-year-old Australian, swam the cold and choppy English Channel in disappointing time Friday and kept her red bathing suit on. She had said she might strip to the waist if the straps of the suit became too tight during the swim.

The curvaceous and publicity-conscious swimmer waded ashore at Dover, Eng., late Friday night and strolled up the beach with her bathing suit firmly in place. A small crowd waiting for something more spectacular was disappointed.

A London nightclub owner announced earlier that Miss McGill has agreed to roll her bathing suit down past her ankles during an underwater striptease act scheduled to start Monday.

BELLI WINS

Attorney Melvin Belli scored another legal victory Friday when a U.S. court martial in Germany cleared Army Sgt. Jack Wood of murdering a German truck driver in a barroom brawl. The colorful defender of Jack Ruby conducted the major part of Wood's defense, alleging the trucker was killed by negligent medical treatment.

BISHOP ROBERT LUCEY
'War a Peace Instrument'

DEFENDS WAR

War is an instrument of peace and necessary because "there are evil men in the world," Roman Catholic Archbishop Robert E. Lucey of San Antonio, a close friend of the President, said Friday.

The prelate, one of 22 election observers sent to South Vietnam by President Johnson, defended war as a moral tool in defense of liberty and justice.

"It is necessary to use force and the man who doesn't believe in force will soon be a slave," said the archbishop. "You cannot have peace in the world without force because there are evil men in the world."

STAYS FREE

Lanky, mustachioed H. Rap Brown, vocal leader of the Black Power movement, remained free on bond Friday after pleading innocent in New Orleans to federal charges he illegally transported firearms.

"Check me, check me, chump!" Brown yelled in a crowded, tightly guarded corridor as he left court.

"Check what?" someone asked.

"Check my atom bomb," he quickly replied. He repeatedly called Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen a moron. At one time when asked if he expected any trouble in Louisiana, Brown snapped: "As long as you've got a moron for governor, you can expect anything to happen."

The judge gave Brown's attorneys 30 days to make pretrial motions, but did not set a trial date.

INSPECTING

Director Jack Vaughn is inspecting four Peace Corps training programs in the Los Angeles and San Diego area this weekend.

WITH HONOR

Drums will roll cannon will roar, bugles will play "Gary Owen," and Maj. Marcus Reno — who died in disgrace in 1889 — will go to his second grave, his name cleared and his rank restored.

"Gary Owen" was the regimental music for the 7th Cavalry. The reburial will be in the Custer Battlefield National Cemetery near Hardin, Mont., this afternoon.

Reno was assigned to attack from a flank during the Battle of the Little Big Horn in which Gen. George A. Custer and his 7th Cavalry troops were wiped out by Sioux and Cheyenne Indians.

He was cleared of charges of cowardice by a military tribunal in 1879. But later dismissed from service on charges of brawling, drunkenness and window peaking.

Viet 'Dog Deterrent'—A Crossbow

Story and Photos by HAL LOWE

READY-AIM-FIRE . . . Joe Cheevers of Lakewood loads the crossbow sent him by his soldier brother in Vietnam. The older brother had promised to help Joe keep dogs off the Cheever front lawn, which the youngster must keep green and trim. They call the weapon a "Mark I Dog Dispenser."

When Joe Cheevers of Lakewood left for Vietnam last May, he told his younger brother, Bryan, 12, that he would try to think of a way to help him keep dogs off the front lawn of the Cheevers home.

It is Bryan's chore to keep the front lawn trimmed and mowed, and his work has become more difficult since neighborhood dogs seem fond of the Cheever front lawn a nice place to visit.

This week, Joe, stationed with a cavalry unit at An Khe, Vietnam, was true to his word. He sent Bryan what he referred to as a "Mark I dog dispenser."

The boys' father, Lee Cheevers, thinks the Mark I might be better "utilized" as a non-active display piece on the mantel in the Cheevers' front room.

The gadget—a crossbow used by the Montagnard tribesmen of central Vietnam's Highlands—looks, and is dangerous.

Joe wrote his brother that tribesmen where he is stationed use small arrows, tipped with poison, to nail small game. He did not suggest that Bryan do likewise; in fact, the arrows he sent were blunt nosed.

Their father has stored the arrows away, so Bryan won't be tempted to use the weapon on lawn-prowling canines.

While Bryan has returned to chasing dogs away with a broom, he eagerly awaits his brother's next package.

Newport Beach Hauls in More Sand

An emergency haul of sand to bulwark Newport Beach's storm-eroded strand near 40th Street got under way Friday as the City Council ordered an additional 25,000 cubic yards of fill.

The big earthmovers from Altfillisch Co. of Anaheim tumbled back to Balboa Peninsula to scoop up the treasured sand, and wound up at 7 p.m. Friday as daylight faded.

They will resume Monday in a haul from the Greenville flood control channel's mouth at West Newport, where they will mine 10,000 cubic yards of sand which now plugs the channel mouth at the ocean.

Newport's beaches will be open this weekend — despite predicted high surf — to swimmers, and surfers; City Manager Harvey Hurlburt said. The area from 40th Street westward to the channel will be closed Monday for the big trucks to make the haul along the ocean front.

The City Council had contracted with Altfillisch Co. to haul in 100,000 cubic yards of sand after a raging surf, churned by record-high tides, ripped into a 10-block area of Seaside Drive homes in mid-August.

CDC Prepares Final Plans for Peace Parley in L.B.

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

The California Democratic Council's executive committee held a closed housekeeping session here Friday night in a mood of confidence that current events favor CDC's controversial peace convention scheduled Sept. 30 at Long Beach Arena.

CDC's full board of directors meets today and Sunday in Edgewater Inn to lay final convention plans, including refining of the exact proposal which the convention will be asked to weigh with regard to fielding a presidential peace delegation in California's 1968 primary.

Robert Cleveland, press coordinator for the convention, said that the initial mood of opposition to the convention, especially in Orange County, appears to have abated. He said he now expects more than 1,300 delegates and some 3,000 alternates to attend.

At least two anticonvention executive committee members were on hand for the Friday session at the Edgewater — Carl D'Agostino, an Orange County advocate against the convention, and Neil Norman, of Placerville. Both are regional vice presidents of CDC.

Increasing antiwar sentiment, manifested in national polls and in hawk-to-dove turnabouts by some national figures, heartened some CDC leaders to the confidence that they could win state representation to the 1968 Democratic National Convention over delegations committed to President Johnson.

The chance would be heightened, said one member of the executive committee, if there were three other competing delegations, perhaps led by former Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty and Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch. Those three would be delegations for President Johnson.

The peace convention was ratified at CDC's March state convention. Its stated purpose was to support a candidate and platform "opposing this government's war program in Southeast Asia and supporting the renewal of a progressive peacetime program at home . . ."

L.A. CITY COUNCIL REBUFFS SHERIFF

Los Angeles City Council was Friday asked to officially oppose large sheriff's staff increases unless they are paid for by residents of unincorporated areas but councilmen referred the issue to committee.

The motion by Councilman Thomas Bradley would have backed the position taken by so-called "independent cities."

Bradley said cities with their own police departments have little to gain from "hundreds" on new sheriff's deputies who would be assigned primarily to unincorporated areas. He noted that the sheriff's department is financed from Los Angeles County general fund taxes.

Several councilmen indicated they agreed with Bradley in principal, but declined immediate approval of the motion, so the question was sent to the Police, Fire and Civil Defense Committee.

Last spring, Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess launched a campaign for 1,200 new deputies, but county supervisors budgeted only 228 more.

Walter Knott, Knowland Named to Historical Board

Walter Knott, founder-owner of Knott's Berry Farm in Buena Park, Friday was named with five other citizens to the California Bicentennial Celebration Commission.

Also serving on the commission, which is to plan the 1969-70 celebration of the 200th anniversary of the settlement of California, are San Diego publisher James S. Copley, Monterey publisher Col. Allen Griffin, Oakland publisher William F. Knowland and Santa Barbara TV station owner William F. Luton.

Lt. Gov. Robert Finch was named to act as chairman of the group, which must be confirmed by the State Senate.

Girl Kidney Transplant Patient, 13, Recovering

Thirteen-year-old Diana Lyn McGuire of Orange, who received a kidney transplant from her mother, is ambulatory at the UCLA Medical Center in Westwood.

Physicians reported the Aug. 23 transplant from mother to daughter was "apparently successful" but Diana was a bed patient until she ventured to amble down the hallway. Her mother, Mrs. David D. McGuire, returned home last weekend.

The girl suffered complete loss of kidney functions on June 10, and was kept alive by an artificial kidney machine.

High costs of treatment brought the McGuire family, of 387 S. Shaffer St., to the verge of bankruptcy.

A fund drive was launched by the Orange Chamber of Commerce, which employs Mrs. McGuire as a secretary, and more than $10,000 has been raised to date under direction of James S. Beam, a chamber vice president, and his committee.

Garden Grove Bank Robbed

A bandit escaped with an undetermined amount of cash from a Bank of America branch in Garden Grove Friday, police reported. The man, armed with a revolver, entered the branch office at Fernwood and 17th Streets shortly after 3 p.m. and, after threatening a teller, grabbed the money and walked out.

Harbor Commission OKs Travel Expenses

Expenses for trips to Europe and the Pacific Northwest were approved Friday by the Los Angeles Harbor Commission.

The expenses were authorized for travels of eight persons, one of whom will fly to Copenhagen and the other seven to Seattle and Vancouver, B.C.

Provided by the commission for state Sen. Ralph Dills, D-Los Angeles, is one way transportation to Copenhagen to join a harbor trade commission and travel with it to Yugoslavia and Italy.

The senator will pay his own expenses on the return trip to Los Angeles. He replaces Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro, who has decided not to go.

Also authorized were travel and subsistence allowances for seven persons to attend the Pacific Coast Association of Port Authorities convention Tuesday through Saturday in Seattle, and the American Association of Port Authorities convention in Vancouver Sept. 17 through 22.

SCHEDULED to attend the Seattle conference are Commissioners George Watson and Paul Watanabe; John Parkinson, assistant general manager of the harbor; and Frederick Stanford, planning and research director.

Watson; Watanabe; Bernard J. Caughlin, general manager of the harbor; L. R. Whitenack, chief harbor engineer, and Assistant City Atty. Edward C. Farrell are scheduled to attend the Vancouver convention. Sen. Dills left Friday to join Commissioner Robert Day and Port Traffic Manager Kermit Sadler in Denmark. They are part of a seven-man mission working to promote Los Angeles Harbor in Europe.

The commission had authorized $15,000 for the seven-man mission, although four other members beside Thomas have turned down the invitation to participate.

Trial of James Anthony Farris and Charles H. Williams on narcotics violations was continued Friday until Sept. 14 in Long Beach Superior Court.

Farris, 23, of 916 E. 20th St., and Williams, 23, an employ of the Long Beach Recreation Department were arrested June 2 by police, who said they found marijuana in the car the men were driving.

Farris also faces trial Thursday on charges of assault on a peace officer, stemming from a near-riot at New York Street and Atlantic Avenue May 1 which involved six policemen and about 30 Negro youths.

Motorist Killed on Coast Highway

A Huntington Beach motorist was killed Friday when his car struck a station wagon making a U-turn on Pacific Coast Highway near Bolsa Chica State Beach.

Lynn Leroy Segleson, 26, of 11082 Poppy Drive, was dead on arrival at Huntington Beach Intercommunity Hospital shortly after 6 p.m., police reported.

The driver of the station wagon, Leo G. Farber, of 1101 England St., Huntington Beach, was not injured. Police said the accident is still under investigation.

The victim is survived by his wife, Laura Lee.

Man Robbed on Walk

Two thugs who attacked Douglas Drew, 3629 E. 14th St., as he walked on Pacific Coast Highway near Stanley Avenue took $14 from his wallet, Long Beach police reported Friday.

The robbers struck Drew on the head, choked him and fled with the money, he told officers.

Ask Repeal of Celibacy for Priests

New York Times Service

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — One hundred fifty Roman Catholic priests Friday called upon American delegates to the forthcoming synod of bishops in Rome to place the issue of whether priests may marry on the agenda.

Such a move would formally reopen the discussion of the issue that Pope Paul VI presumably intended to end within his June Encyclical "Sacerdotalis Caelibatus" (on priestly celibacy).

The encyclical letter described celibacy as a "brilliant jewel" that would continue to be "firmly linked to the ecclesiastical ministry."

MOST OF THE 150 priests are members of the National Association for Pastoral Renewal, which concluded a three-day meeting here on "Clerical Celibacy: An Option in the Priesthood?"

In an open statement to the American episcopate, the priests, the majority of whom are in their mid and late 30s, declared that "individual choice in the matter of celibacy is a prerequisite for a more effective public ministry."

The 300-word statement also urged that:

—Married former priests be permitted to participate in the sacraments of the church, from which many now are barred.

—Such priests be allowed to return to the "active ministry."

—Priests who wish to leave the active ministry be permitted to do so "with dignity and honor."

Ex-State Legislator Kills Self

BEL AIR ESTATES (CNS) — Harold K. Levering, one-time Republican majority leader of the state assembly, shot and killed himself Friday.

West Los Angeles police officer Ronald Smith said the body of the 72-year-old former legislator was found by his widow, Lucy.

Mrs. Levering told police her husband had been depressed over ill health and the recent death of a grandchild.

Smith said Levering had shot himself once in the right temple with a .25-caliber automatic pistol.

LEVERING, a conservative Republican who served seven terms as assemblyman for the 60th district, had been in ill health for the past two years, according to his widow.

Levering represented the Santa Monica Bay area's 60th Assembly district from 1948 until 1962, when he decided against seeking re-election.

He was the author of the California Loyalty oath and wrote the bill which closed Santa Monica Bay to offshore oil drilling by the state.

guards said, they are readying for the worst.

The Weather Bureau said that Hurricane Lily, cause of all the violent seas, also will kick up swells in the Catalina Channel from three to four feet high.

Seas in the channel are expected to be too rough for small craft, and the heavy swells could make boating uncomfortable even in marinas. Those harbors open to the south should be especially choppy, the weatherman said.

TEMPERATURES in coastal areas—expected to range in the high 70s or low 80s today and Sunday.

The weatherman added one final, consoling note: Hurricane Lily is headed north-northwest from her present location, some 900 miles south-southwest of Long Beach. As the storm reaches cooler waters, it should dissipate, weathermen said.

Kirschke Witness Changes Testimony

— that a Long Beach officer had picked up the screen, looked at it and then put it back on the ground.

Then Ramsey began dissecting the answers Miller had given Harris earlier in the day on direct examination.

MILLER HAD told of hearing "angry voices" emitting from the Kirschke apartment on numerous occasions. He said he had heard a woman scream on three occasions. He said he had seen Jack Kirschke strike his wife.

But then Ramsey took over. No, Miller admitted, on the occasion of the screams he did not know for sure whether either Mrs. Kirschke or her husband were downstairs.

When Ramsey pressed him for details of the incident in which he said he had seen Kirschke strike his wife, he admitted he hadn't actually seen the blow land, although he did say he saw the arm going towards her and said he thought it had struck the upper part of her body.

He also said he was "not positive" that the angry voices he had heard were those of either Mr. or Mrs. Kirschke.

MILLER IS TO return to the witness stand Monday and then will be followed by Long Beach Patrolman Fred B. Sims. Following Sims, according to the order of witnesses laid out by Harris, will be Police Inspector Garold E. McIntire.

This will be the second time on the stand for McIntire. He testified during the lengthy pretrial hearing which preceded selection of a jury to hear the case.

Ramsey said Friday he would give his opening statement to the jury after the prosecution has presented its case, a matter of two or three weeks from now.

New Jersey to See Viet Duty by July

The battleship New Jersey will add the firepower of her 21-inch guns to Naval forces battling the Vietnamese Communists by next July, the Navy said Friday.

Mid-May 1968 is the target date for recommissioning of the big battleship, to be based in Long Beach.

Reactivation work is in progress at the Philadelphia Naval Base. Modernization includes a fantail helicopter landing pad plus helicopter refueling facilities.

Following recommissioning, a four to six week shakedown cruise is scheduled before the ship goes to Vietnam to take up her firing position.

Capt. Richard G. Alexander of Charleston, S.C., will command the ship and her 70 officers and 1,400 enlisted men.

Cost of the eight to nine month reactivation work will be about $25 million.

Fewer Cars, Higher Prices Ahead as Strike Lengthens

New York Times Service

DETROIT — A shortage of new cars and higher car prices are expected as the strike at the Ford Motor Co. went into its second day.

Striking members of the United Auto Workers lined up at Ford plants across the country Friday to pick up their paychecks for last week's work. But with no quick settlement expected, car buyers will be lining up across the country in coming months.

The strike at Ford, which accounts for one-fourth of the nation's car production, is only one reason for the scarcity. Cars have been in short supply for weeks because of a summer sales pick up. General Motors Corp. officials say GM, which has half the nation's car-building capacity, isn't raising production to take advantage of Ford's trouble.

Even foreign-car importers say they will be short of cars in the next few months.

The result will be higher car prices for buyers.

"We've started strengthening our deals already. We're trading harder," said Frank Vego, a Ford dealer in Atlanta, Ga. He says he has to get more profit for each car because of the "$60,000 a month I need to operate. Salesmen have to eat, too," he said. Vego said he is trying for a profit of $400 a car instead of the normal $200.

Car prices are going up on 1968 models anyway. Chrysler Corp. and Ford have indicated the new models will be up $125 over the 1967 cars because of added antismog devices, safety items and higher costs.

The industry's statistics indicate the size of the shortage. On the first of September approximately 940,000 1967 and 1968 cars were in inventory, down from the nearly 1.1 million of a year ago. For the month of September the car makers had planned to build 730,000 cars, but 195,000 of these were to be Fords. This means production will be below the 650,000 American cars built in September last year.

Importers are not ready to take up the slack. Problems in preparing the 1968 foreign cars with antismog and safety devices are slowing delivery.

Strike Talk Not Yet 'Serious'

DETROIT (UPI) — It may be next month before any meaningful bargaining will resume in the United Auto Workers' nationwide strike against Ford Motor Co., a union leader said Friday.

No formal negotiations to end the walkout by 160,000 UAW members in 25 states are scheduled until Monday, and even then the talks will resume at the lower levels.

UAW Secretary-Treasurer Emil Meezy said any "serious bargaining" would probably have to wait until Ford has exhausted its stockpile of cars turned out before the strike began Thursday morning.

That backlog, estimated at 93,000 of the yet-to-be-unveiled 1968 models and 196,000 of the 1967 models, is already starting to dwindle. The nation's 7,200 Ford dealers will probably run dry in about four weeks.

Meezy said the union will be in its peak bargaining position once Ford has exhausted its inventory and the other two auto giants, General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp., begin soaking up Ford's share of the lucrative 1968 market.

Cushing Doubts Bobby's Chance

By DREW PEARSON

Boston's colorful Richard Cardinal Cushing, the intimate friend and spiritual adviser to the Kennedy clan, has predicted privately that Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y., will never make it to the White House.

The difference between the late Jack Kennedy's successful campaign and Bobby Kennedy's prospects, the cardinal explained to friends, is the illness of their father. Without old Joe Kennedy pulling wires in the back room, the cardinal suggested, Bobby won't win the Presidency.

The prelate jovially recalled how he and old Joe, both hardshell Catholics, made strategic contributions to Protestant ministers in West Virginia to help win friends and influence voters for Jack Kennedy in the crucial 1960 West Virginia primary.

"We donated $200 to some, $300 to others — and a few got $1,000 — depending upon the size of their congregations," confessed the Cardinal, chuckling merrily.

THE FLIGHT of the migrant workers has been getting attention in the press lately, but it has received little attention from Congress.

The powerful California and Texas delegations, with few exceptions, are lined up on the side of the big ranchers against their underpaid stoop laborers.

Two of the most vociferous champions of the ranchers are Congressmen Burt Talcott and Charles Teague, both Republicans, who represent adjoining California districts. Teague's family owns Limonera Ranch, the world's largest lemon producer. Although Talcott is not himself a rancher, his law firm represents the packing and processing houses that do business with the ranchers.

Talcott and Teague have always stood together in the House, opposing curbs on the admission of cheap Mexican labor, favoring legislation that benefits the ranchers, crying out in angry duet against any infringement upon the feudal rule of the big ranch owners.

THIS COLUMN has solved the mystery of how a huge, gold-framed painting, which used to hang in the board room of Central Airlines, turned up on the wall of Texas Congressman Omar Burleson's office.

The painting of an ox-drawn, wooden-wheeled wagon, prodded along by peasants, was purchased in Europe. Someone at Central Airlines, decided it didn't project the image of a 20th century airline, and the painting suddenly vanished from the board room.

A spokesman told this column that the painting was carried on the books at a value of $39.50. Its purchase price, he said, was $525. However, the airline received a $140 rebate from the shippers because of damage in transit.

The spokesman identified the purchaser as Ed Connally, one of the airline's directors, who told this column that he paid $500 for it. He immediately shipped it off, he said, to Congressman Burleson.

Connally could not explain any reason for the gift, except that he and the congressman were friends. However, the congressman apparently was glad to get it, for it occupies the most prominent place on the wall of his private office.

COMMUNIST disturbances in Hong Kong have caused a rush on Communist banks. Depositors are moving their money into capitalist banks or out of the country altogether. Trade with the mainland has also dwindled to a trickle.

This is hardly the reaction the Red Chinese must have wanted, since they have been getting half of their hard currency through Hong Kong. On the other hand, the sudden freezing of the money supply removes the chief reason that Red China has not taken over Hong Kong.

Reagan 'Exaggerated' Water Project Deficit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state can continue building its massive $2.5-billion water project without getting into the gloomy financial waters forecast by a Reagan administration task force, the state's water chief said Friday.

William R. Gianelli, director of the Water Resources Department, said postponement of some projects or help of additional financing can keep the project running into 1975.

But in neither case would the problems be as severe as forecast by Reagan's Water Resources Task Force last May, he said. The task force predicted a $300 million deficit in project financing by 1972 and a possible deficit of $600 million by 1985.

GIANELLI TOLD the State Water Commission Friday that construction could continue on its present schedule into 1971 before money would be gone. To continue on that basis, $77.5 million would be needed by 1975.

Less money would be required if some projects were built later than scheduled, he said.

Gianelli asked the commission to schedule hearings immediately on the alternatives proposed in his department's report. The commission then would make recommendations to the Senate and Assembly water committees, which will hold hearings on the State Water Project this fall.

Now past the halfway point in construction, the project is designed to ship water from Northern California to the thirsty South by the 444-mile California Aqueduct.

Also at the meeting Friday, Gianelli said his department and the U.S. Corps of Engineers are working toward an agreement which would provide that the corps build the Dos Rios Dam on the Middle Fork of the Eel River.

The state would build a diversion tunnel to deliver the water to the Sacramento Valley, serving as an additional supply for the State Water Project.

The state could have as much as $160 million if the federal government took over construction of Dos Rios Dam and reservoir, Gianelli said.

The department and commission agreed to withhold approval of any more applications for local project grants under the Davis-Grunsky assistance program pending a study of current allocation policies.

Poison-Spined Fish Make Life Sticky for Aquanauts

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

early next year.

LOS ANGELES — A potential danger for Sealab 3 aquanauts — poison-spined fish likely to flock to the underwater habitat like tourists to a new hotel — is under study by scientists at USC.

Navy Cmdr. Scott Carpenter, the nation's only astronaut-aquanaut, was stung painfully two years ago, in an excursion from Sealab 2 off La Jolla, by a variety of scorpion fish called a sculpin.

The sculpin and other venomous marine creatures may be a hazard also to inhabitants of Sealab 3, scheduled to be lowered 430 feet to the ocean floor near San Clemente island

SAYS DR. Findlay Russell, USC professor of neurology: "Sculpins are generally found around reefs. An underwater vessel becomes another reef to them, and they tend to congregate around it as if it were a new hotel. If they like the accommodations, they stay."

Finding ways Sealab 3 divers can avoid being stung when they leave the 12x70-foot tanklike vessel is a major part of a study under way by Russell and Dr. Paul Saunders, USC biologist, supported by the Office of Naval Research.

Russell said little is known about the habits of the sculpin and "we plan to tag those we find in the area, or we may put some devices on them in order to follow their patterns. We may find it necessary to use their natural enemies to keep them away from the project."

"We are not sure yet just how their venom works," he said, "but apparently it acts in several ways, including interference with the heart's normal pacemaker. It also seems to cause changes in the central nervous system through decreasing the blood supply."

Carpenter and others describe the pain caused by venom from spines along the sculpin's back as severe. Although seldom fatal, the sting can incapacitate a man for several hours or even days.

Repeal Rumford Act Committee Formed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Southern California group calling itself "the Rumford Act Repeal Committee" filed articles of incorporation Friday with Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan.

The group said its purpose was "to operate for the repeal of the Rumford Act," which prohibits racial discrimination in the sale or rental of most housing. Directors of the nonprofit corporation were listed as Bruce Stevens, Lynwood; Christine Jones, Paramount; and Charles Douty, Gardena.

JUDGE BAITER

He Will Appeal, but From Jail

After all that, Paul Harkless plans to appeal the six-month jail sentence he got on a narcotics conviction in Santa Ana Superior Court.

He asked Friday that Judge Byron K. McMillan admit him to bail and give him time to complete his appeal before he begins serving time in the Orange County Jail. The court refused.

Harkless, 27, a designer from Newport Beach, Sausalito and Seattle, had taunted two judges by letters complaining that he liked to smoke marijuana — and intended to continue doing so.

Convicted last Oct. 31 in the Superior Court of Judge Robert Gardner, Harkless didn't appear for sentencing, but sent a letter saying he "couldn't allow himself to be sentenced."

By letter, he pledged to surrender April 1 to Judge McMillan. He didn't, however, last Thursday he turned himself in to be sentenced.

Judge McMillan ruled Harkless can prepare an appeal while in jail, if he still wants to challenge the sentence.

AREA BRIEFS

Campaign to Hire Workers Over 40

"Hire the 40-Plus Worker Week" gets under way Monday in Long Beach.

Purpose of the event — according to George Toll, manager of the city's state employment service office, is to point up "the valuable source of reliable workers sometimes not fully utilized because of unfavorable beliefs and generalizations."

Toll said contrary to many misconceptions the over-40 worker evidences more reliability, less absenteeism and a stability that comes with maturity.

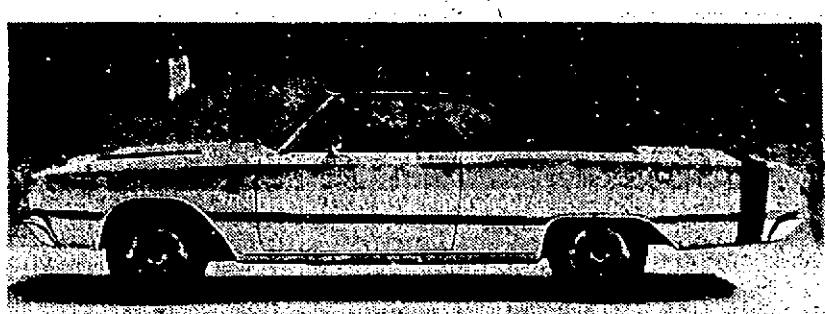

NOW IT'S ANTI-BUSES
Bellflower Unified School District has come up with a new wrinkle in marking school busses to assist small lots in boarding the right vehicle when going to or from school.

Where more than one bus serves an elementary school, each will have a picture of a different animal posted on the bus next to the door. Thus, at one school there will be a "doggie bus," an "elephant bus" and a "rabbit bus."

"The system was devised to help very young students from getting on the wrong bus, as has happened in the past," said David Shelver, assistant superintendent.

"They often forget their bus number during the school day, but are all expected to remember the animal designation."

THE 1968 DART, Dodge Division's popular compact, will go on sale at Dodge dealerships Thursday. There are three sedans, three hardtop and two convertible models.

NEW STYLING FOR 1968

Wider Appeal Sought for Dart

By ART STEPAHN
Auto Editor

Dodge Dart, one of the industry's most popular regular-sized compacts in 1967, is seeking even greater sales through wider market appeal in 1968, according to Robert B. McCurry, Dodge general manager.

McCurry said that Dart's fresh, new styling for 1968, the addition of a new GT Sports model and increased engine availability are intended to meet the needs and desires of both the compact and the specialty car enthusiasts.

"We've balanced style, economy and performance in a variety of packages that should give Dart, for '68 even broader market appeal than its pace-setting predecessors," said McCurry.

Co-leaders of the Dart parade for 1968 are an exciting new specialty car—the GT Sport—and a power-planted built especially for it—an all-new 340-cubic-inch, 275-horsepower V-8.

"The Dart GT Sport," McCurry said, "provides the sporty appearance and smooth handling that appeal to the sporty car enthusiast."

The exterior of this car features a divided grille with power bulges (simulated exhaust ports) on the hood. At the rear of the car is a unique trim plate with two large, exposed exhaust tips. To complete the sport package, the GT features a choice of stripes along the sides of the car or bold bumble bee stripes, which run across the rear deck and down the quarter panels.

Red line, wide-tread tires and Dodge's extra-tight Rallye suspension with heavy duty shock absorbers, brakes and sway bars help make the GT Sport a smooth-handling, corner-hugging road-gripper.

The Dart GT Sport is available in hardtop and convertible models.

Educators Divided in Minibattle Over Culottes

By BARBARA KNEIS

Out in the fashion world there arose such clatter even Southland educators had to review the matter.

It was the question of culottes and it looked like it might prompt at least a minifight on the campus.

And that's just what harried schoolmen were girding against as they hammered out revised dress codes to be presented — along with welcome back addresses — to fashion-conscious student bodies Monday morning.

A look at the codes showed school officials to be just about equally divided on the divided-skirt question.

"We say a dress is a dress and culottes are culottes," Dr. Max Forney, superintendent of the Huntington Beach Union High School District, explained in flunking the fashion world's latest brainchild.

QUESTIONABLE CULOTTE

Short Clinging Fabric, Designed for Leisure

He said the only time culottes could get a passing grade at any of the district's four high schools was if the principals declared a dispensation in the face of some special activity.

In nearby Fullerton Union District, Mrs. Eleanor Kemper, vice principal at Buena Park High School, took exception.

"What in the world is wrong with culottes," she asked. "They are far more attractive and modest than some of the short skirts."

She said her high school doesn't like to fight youngsters on something like culottes "when there are far more important things we could be fighting them on, like LSD."

Mrs. Kemper said she felt it was her job to educate and that adding too many regulations can actually cause far out disobedience.

"We like to have as few rules as possible . . . work on positive side."

She said all the high school requires of its students is that they do not embarrass it with outlandish styles.

"We find if we go along with them, they go along with us," Mrs. Kemper said.

Dr. Norman Wampler, superintendent of Bellflower Unified District which received national publicity less than a decade ago when officials

Other Southland educators also gave the okay to culottes but did attach some conditions on the type of culottes allowed.

In the Long Beach Unified School District, culottes are conditionally acceptable, the conditions being based on modesty in length and fabric.

At Palos Verdes High School, the pantdress can be no shorter than two inches above the knee. In the Santa Ana Union District, it can be three inches above the knee.

"We don't run around the campus with a ruler measuring," Palos Verdes Principal Lucile Crane quipped.

"If we think a skirt causes too much concern from the male population, we talk with the girl, explain our attitude and ask her mother to bring another dress."

She said parents have been most cooperative.

To be permitted in Norwalk-La Mirada District, culottes must be full "and of a suitable length" while Costa Mesa High in the Newport-Mesa Unified District specified that modesty be the criteria.

Many of the school districts, while permitting the fuller culottes, frown on the one-piece jump-of student activities said. He stressed that the culotte rule was not unchangeable.

The school district did gain some points with students when it raised the hemline ceiling to one inch above the kneecap.

Likewise in Harbor City, Paramount Unified, Compton and Downey school districts, the pantdresses were out.

Mrs. Evelyn Price, Narbonne High School girls vice principal, said the culottes "are play clothes and do not belong in a place of business and school should be serious business."

Culottes are permitted in Placentia's Valencia High School but not in its sister school—El Dorado High.

One school secretary spoke for a number of educators when she sighed:

"I would hate to be a girls' high school vice principal."

Culottes will make the scene in Long Beach Unified School District for the first time ever.

Officials, however, point out that to be acceptable the pantdresses must be "cut like skirts" — ruling out culottes of the jumpsuit, playsuit, bloomer and little boy pantsuit variety.

An illustrated story on Long Beach District's culotte fashion-fad, by Mary Ellis Carlton, Director of Women's News, appeared in the Aug. 27 edition of The Independent, Press-Telegram.

there tightened dress regulations, said he felt educators must recognize trends in styles and be reasonable in their rules.

In line with this philosophy divided skirts for females and Bermuda shorts for males will be acceptable school wear there.

"But," Wampler cautioned, "this doesn't mean the district will not continue to enforce the rules relative to appropriateness and good taste."

He said questionable attire will be judged by the school principal or his representative.

suit and panty-type culotte. This is the case at Western High School in the Anaheim Union District.

"The key word is taste," officials there noted. "We have a working situation at school and we want the student to come prepared to work."

Orange County's largest district—Garden Grove Unified—said no to all kinds of culottes.

"The fashion hadn't been so fashionable at the time the decision was made," Hal Butler, director

L.B. to Stress Vocational Education, Teachers Told

By CHARLES SUTTON

Thirty-five hundred teachers in the Long Beach Unified School District were told Friday that the system will put greater emphasis on vocational education in the months ahead.

Superintendent W. Odie Wright made the disclosure in a 40-minute speech which launched the teachers on a new school year and set the tone of educational policy for the district.

Wright made no radical recommendations or startling disclosures, but told the teachers they must prepare for change in the educational system.

"Revolutionary new tools and facilities for teaching are coming into our schools," he said, addressing the annual teachers meeting in the Long Beach Auditorium.

But even more important, he added, will be the changes required in the teachers themselves — they will be called upon to sharpen their skills and add to their knowledge.

"A valid 1967 credential to teach is no guarantee that its holder won't be obsolete in 1977 if he simply stands still in his profession," Wright declared.

Drawing on a phrase used by South Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford, Wright said teachers will be asked to "stretch and reach and strain," to get to those youngsters who normally don't keep up with their classmates.

He said they'll be asked also to pay more attention to the so-called disadvantaged child, without necessarily ignoring the needs of the average student.

And, in a preview of a statement expected to be issued Monday by the Board of Education, the superintendent declared "action will be taken on all of the recommendations" made by a special citizens committee which recently concluded a study of the racial and educational situation at Poly High School.

Discussing the schools' expected new emphasis on vocational guidance, Wright said the district hopes to "design a master plan" for a program of "occupational preparation."

"This, in turn, should lead to the revision of some old courses of study and the addition of some new courses," he declared. Wright said the plan will probably also require the recruitment of additional teachers in the vocational field.

The school chief struck a negative note when he said the district will be receiving considerably less money from the state than it had expected this year.

Instead of the $3 million increase expected, it will be getting only $400,000 more than last year.

In addition, he said, federal funds for special programs for "disadvantaged" students have been reduced, too. (A school spokesman later said the federal allocation to Long Beach had been cut by a third.)

3 MARINES FROM AREA DIE IN WAR

Three Southland Marines were listed Friday among 37 more men reported killed in action in the Vietnam war.

They were:

Lance Cpl. Jerrald L. Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin M. Edwards, 2278 Placentia Ave., Costa Mesa.
Lance Cpl. Allan G. Kai-fas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Z. Watrous, 12542 Burao St., Garden Grove.
Lance Cpl. Gilbert S. Salazar, 9133 Olympic Way, Pico Rivera.

Mine Force Honors 3 'Sweepers'

Three minesweepers received the Battle "E" award Friday for their high grade in operational readiness, material maintenance and day-to-day operation.

The ocean sweep USS Loyalty, Minesweeping Boat 53 and Minesweeping Launch 24 received the award from Pacific Mine Force commander, Rear Adm. Horace V. Bird.

The Loyalty, just back from anti-infiltration Vietnam operations, is commanded by Lt. Cmdr. T.S. Witherow; Boat 53's skipper is Boatswain's Mate I.C. F.A. Tucker; and Launch 24 is commanded by Boatswain's Mate 3.C. J.E. Isaacs.

Boats such as No. 53 are used in the Long Tau River channel to Saigon and the launches are designed to sweep amphibious operation beachhead areas.

Two other sweeps now in Vietnam also earned the "E." They are the coastal sweeper USS Vireo and the ocean sweep USS Leader.

SMOG LAWS HAZY IN ORANGE COUNTY

Imagine Orange County without a law to control the burning of refuse.

Agricultural Commissioner William Fitcher, who also is the county's air pollution control officer, did a double take this week when he discovered that regulations governing incineration and open fires are no longer on the books.

It seems that when the Board of Supervisors adopted revised air pollution regulations earlier this year, to become effective next Jan. 1, they "inadvertently" repealed the rules controlling burning by incineration and open fires.

The new regulations about these things will be known as Rules 57 and 58, but Fitcher complained that January is a long way off and, meanwhile, he cannot control such pollution.

Supervisors hastily reinstated the old regulations, known as Rules 46 and 47 — revised statutes become effective Jan. 1.

Boat Hoist Considered Near Magnolia Bridge

A boat-hoist facility formerly a long side Pacific Sportfishing landing may be given an opportunity to return to the harbor area next spring.

Pacific Boat Hoist and Rentals was removed from its location on the east side of Long Beach's Pier A because of pending Magnolia Bridge construction.

City Manager John R. Mansell, in a report to the City Council, said the hoist operator had been a sublessee of Pacific Sportfishing Inc., but when Pacific Sportfishing was relocated on Pier G, they did not choose to provide space for the boat hoist.

Mansell noted the city has launching sites at the foot of Golden Avenue on the east side of Los Angeles River and at Marine Stadium. In addition, Pierpoint Landing, on Pier A, has a hoist.

When the southerly fill for the Magnolia Bridge is completed next spring, there will be an area north of the construction site which could be used for a small-boat hoist operation, Mansell said.

BOATING CLASSES WILL BE OFFERED

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

Classes offering sail and powerboat enthusiasts instruction in the proper handling of small pleasure boats will be given at two local high schools beginning next week, it was announced Friday by Commodore Fred Christ of the Long Beach unit, United States Power Squadrons.

The free, 13-week courses in elementary piloting will be held at Wilson High School, 10th Street and Ximeno Avenue on Monday evenings, and at Millikan High School, 2800 Snowden Ave., on Thursday evenings, he said. Classes will start at 7:30 p.m. and will be held in the cafeterias at both schools.

"The tremendous increase in small boat traffic in and out of local marinas, coupled with the great amount of offshore new construction, demands that pleasure boaters know and understand the rules of the road, aids to navigation, right-of-way and the many other facets of safe small-craft handling," according to the commander of the 600-member LBPS.

Other subjects to be covered during the weekly classes include compass and chart reading, U.S. Coast Guard ventilation requirements, docking and undocking, safe fueling procedures, dead reckoning and other subjects related to safe small-boat handling.

The classes are open to persons 14 years or older, whatever their area of residence.

"Wives who may have to take over the handling of a boat in an emergency are especially invited to attend," said the commodore.

Upon completion of the elementary piloting course, graduates may enroll in seamanship, advanced piloting and navigation courses.

Still other elective courses offered by the USPS to graduates of the elementary piloting class include marine electronics, weather, sailing and engine maintenance.

FOR BELLFLOWER PASTOR
Congregation
Pioneers Paid
Study Leave

By LES RODNEY

In a pioneering move certain to elicit high interest in Southland church circles, First Baptist Church of Bellflower is underwriting a six-and-a-half month sabbatical study leave for its pastor.

Rev. J. Eugene Wright, who has led the large American Baptist Convention church at 9603 Belmont Ave. for the past six years, will preach his final sermon Sunday until he returns from Chicago Theological Seminary.

He will take up residence as a graduate student at the seminary, and plans to complete two quarters of work through next March, during which time his church will support him with three fourth of his usual compensation.

IN RETURN, according to the formula worked out by the church, Rev. Wright has agreed to return to the Bellflower pulpit for at least two years following his leave.

Recognition of the need of pastors for renewal after a number of years of administrative, emotional and intellectual drain is behind the arrangement. The procedure of "recharging the battery" has been increasingly utilized in other areas of American professional life as a must for topnotch modern leadership. Dr. Kenneth Voss, M.D., chairman of the Bellflower church's diaconate, reveals that the concept was originally broached to members of the congregation attending a conference last year at California Baptist Theological Seminary in Covina. There Dr. J. Lester Harnish, then president of the 1.5-million member national denomination (formerly the Northern Baptists), suggested that one reason for the high turnover of Protestant pastors might be the need for a renewal and study period which, without a paid leave, could not be met.

Members discussed the idea with Rev. Wright upon their return to Bellflower, Dr. Voss relates. "He admitted there were times when he felt the need for study and renewal and had seriously considered giving up his pastorate in order to obtain it—the only way possible under church regulations."

"MUCH discussion" followed, the lay leader continued, "with some research showing that periods of renewal and advanced training are now provided widely in industry, business and the fields of medicine and education. Samuel H. Miller, dean of the Harvard Divinity School, has asked, 'Why not the church? No profession needs it more if it is to regain the vital nature of its professional competence.'"

Following the study, First Baptist of Bellflower adopted a complete sabbatical leave program, permitting a pastor to qualify for a six month leave after five years service, nine months after 10 years, and a year after 15 years, with a salary scale worked out and vacation time accrued in the usual amount during the leave. A pastor granted a leave would agree to return to the home church for at least two years, or reimburse the church a proportionate amount of the salary allowed during his leave.

Leaves are not granted automatically at the end of any of the stipulated periods, Dr. Voss amplified. "The minister must request the sabbatical in writing, stating the objective of his study and outlining a tentative program. The church membership then decides if the request is to be approved or denied."

Rev. Wright's approved request states in part: "My personal goal is to find ways and means to help the church become a fellowship of reconciliation in itself, that we might discover the role each member has as a 'minister,' and develop that potential to its fullest, both individually and as it relates to other persons, in the church and in the world."

SPEAKING OF the pastor's need to "fill the well once again" after giving of himself a number of years following his college and seminary education, Rev. Wright commented: "I do not pretend this will be a cure-all. However, it is a great step in the right direction. It is a fact that in today's church there is a growth of technological knowledge, an increase in educational attainments, and perhaps a growing sophistication among the membership. It is my sincere belief that the minister simply MUST keep up with the fantastic increase in knowledge that is bursting upon our world... understanding the world we live in."

Chicago Theological Seminary, operated by the United Church of Christ, is widely regarded as outstanding in the area of the enriching of the ministry's practical side. Speaking of one of the seminary's staff members, Dr. Philip Anderson, Rev. Wright said: "It is his feeling, for instance, that meetings of the church—whether committees, board, study or social, be more than just meeting for the stated purpose. Rather, they should be experiences of love and mutual concern, reflecting the words of Jesus 'That by this shall men know you are My disciples... that you love one another.'"

In its large city setting, the seminary also stresses practical experience in relating faith to life situations, rather than a purely academic approach. Rev. Wright notes. Another strong emphasis is the minister's role in the education of lay members.

Rev. Wright will leave for Chicago later this month with his wife Jeanette, their daughter, 9, and son, 3. Another son is in the Armed Forces. A native of Michigan, Rev. Wright came to Bellflower following a pastorate at West Hollywood Baptist Church.

THE BELLFLOWER church, at the same location since its founding 40 years ago, has a membership of 1,100 and recently completed its rebuilding campaign with new educational facilities. The remainder of the ministerial team, Rev. Keith W. Hub-

REV. WRIGHT To "Fill the Well"

THE CHURCHES AND URBAN RIOTING

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International Churches across the country are asking what they can do about urban rioting.

Here are a few thoughts gleaned from persons who are familiar with the mood of the black ghettos, and who, also understand the practical limitations on a local congregation's ability to respond to the situation.

It is futile for a white suburban church to try to minister directly to ghetto residents by setting up a storefront branch or service center in the inner city.

This sort of gesture makes white people feel like they're really in there battling on the front lines. But if carried out on a token scale—as it usually is—the net effect is to heighten the ghetto's cynicism without materially alleviating its poverty.

Even a well-staffed and well-financed ministry will achieve little unless it is based on churches which are indigenous to the ghetto, and which are led by Negroes who have not been compromised by too much involvement with the white power structure. A few charismatic white clergymen have been able to identify so completely with the Negro's cause that they have won the ghetto's confidence, but they are too exceptional to constitute a basis for institutional strategy.

The most useful contribution that white churches can make at this point, informed observers agree, is to help their own members understand why Negroes are rioting.

The massive public programs needed to relieve the ghetto's explosive frustration about job opportunities, housing and schools will never be undertaken without the support of the white community, or at least that articulate and well-intentioned portion of it which is active in church life.

Until white church members have a far better understanding than most of them now have of what life is like in Negro slums, their reaction to rioting almost inevitably will be motivated more by fear than by compassion. And fear is expressed politically in a demand for repressive measures, rather than support for remedial programs of job training, housing rehabilitation, and improved schools.

With a little effort and imagination, any white church could include in its adult education program—and also in its classes for high school students—frank discussions of urban rioting and its causes.

Advice on study materials is readily available from the social action departments of all the major denominations, or from the Religion and Race Commission of the National Council of Churches.

The impact could be heightened considerably by inviting some of the ghetto's residents—not the polite "Uncle Toms" who say what white people want to hear, but the angry and fractious ones who "tell it like it is"—to discuss their grievances in informal question-and-answer sessions.

Arrangements might also be worked out with an inner city church for a busload of white suburbanites to be escorted on a Negro-guided tour of the ghetto, to see with their own eyes the jobless men standing on street corners, the teenage gangs cruising their concrete turf and pausing from time to time to look enviously into store windows displaying the luxuries of an affluent society in which they have no share.

Any white person who can make such a tour without acquiring a tremendous sense of urgency about the ghetto is a candidate for an even more basic course—in what it means to be a Christian.

Prelate Sees Race Problem Worldwide

New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Racial conflicts "will unfortunately be one of the big world problems of tomorrow," Franz Cardinal Koenig, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Vienna and head of the Vatican's Secretariat for Relations with Nonbelievers, said here.

"It's of the utmost importance to all of us how the United States handles its race riots," the cardinal declared in an interview, "for what's going on here on a national plane is very likely to happen all throughout the world in the future."

The U.S. could set an example for other nations and regions that were potentially threatened by racial clashes if it succeeded in improving interracial relations, the cardinal suggested. He stressed the importance of involvement by religious organizations in the race problem.

CONFIDENT LIVING

Don't Settle for Dull Life

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Ninety per cent of all Americans live dull, routine lives — so says a statement in a magazine. What the basis is for so appalling a conclusion I wouldn't know. But it is obvious that many people do indeed spend their days in boredom and apathy, weighed down by a dreary lack of interest.

Isn't it ironic! This is a time of steadily rising standards of living — shorter working hours, more leisure time, unprecedented varieties of entertainment and recreation — travel and educational opportunities at low costs. Yet vast numbers of people find life dull. And you meet up with this phenomenon at all income levels. Actually, some of the best-heeled individuals find things the dulllest.

People in this unhappy condition reach for tonics and stimulants, hoping to regain zest by getting themselves artificially "souped up." Typical of this misdirection was a man who glumly told his doctor: "I'm fed up with life. I've had it. What makes things worse, I'm a salesman — supposed to sell. To make a decent living I've got to have more energy and more enthusiasm. So give me a shot in the arm, will you? Something potent. Something that will send me out with a burst of enthusiasm."

THE DOCTOR stared over the top of his glasses at his dejected patient. "Your trouble isn't in your body primarily. It's in your spirit. That's what your check-up tells me and so do your remarks. What you need is not a shot in the arm, but a big shot in the spirit."

"I'll write a prescription for a few pills. Take them if you want to. It really doesn't matter too much whether you do or don't. Also, I suggest you have hamburger for lunch every day, to raise your energy. The rest of the prescription — and by far the most important part — is that you start going regularly to church. But be sure it is a dynamic church."

A strange prescription, you might say. But the man had ten sense to follow it. He started going to services at Marble Collegiate Church on Fifth Avenue, New York. Well, church-going did give him a "shot" of new hope, but somehow it didn't carry over into his daily living. So he went to see Dr. Smiley Blanton, the late psychiatrist, who headed the religio-psychiatric clinic associated with our church. Counseling with Dr. Blanton he was able to unload an accumulation of anxieties and resentments,

Alicia Lewis Art

Show at L.B. Church

Named Woman of the Year in Stanton for her work in bringing art to that community, Alicia Lewis brings a representative group of paintings and lithographs to the Unitarian Church of Long Beach, as September's Artist of the Month.

Mrs. Lewis, who studied for 16 years with Karl Seethaler at Long Beach Academy of Art, has painted professionally for 20 years. The mayor and city council of Stanton in January turned over City Hall, enlarged and redecorated, as an exhibit hall.

The show will run through Sept. 30 at the church, 5450 Atherton Ave., open to the public Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

First Brethren Church of Long Beach, 3610 Linden Ave. Classes will be held Mondays and Tuesdays at 7 p.m.

Dr. William W. Orr, chairman of the board of directors, said: "There is a tremendous need for a Bible institute for laymen in this area. Several years ago the Bible Institute of Los Angeles (Biola) left behind its curriculum of many years designed to reach laymen with the simple teaching of the Bible, and has become a degree college for young people.

"This has left a Bible-institute gap for the layman, and we intend to fill this gap and afford laymen the opportunity to receive consecutive, systematic teaching of the Word of God in a scholastic setting."

Dr. Orr emphasized, this did not mean he is criticizing Biola College, now located in La Mirada. "It shifted its emphasis to take care of another very necessary and dire Christian need," he said. "We are merely attempting to fill the vacuum that was left."

He said the faculty of the school will be composed of many conservative pastors and Bible expositors who are "known for their courageous stands for the truth of the scriptures and for their ability to preach and teach the unsearchable riches of Christ."

Subjects will be offered on the basis of a one year introductory course and a two year comprehensive course. A diploma of completion will be presented to those who finish. Such subjects will be taught as: "The Christian's Key to Success," "Survey of the Old Testament," "Highways of Bible Prophecy," "The Book of Romans," "Archaeology and the Bible," "The Life of Jesus Christ," and others.

"The appeal of the school will be interdenominational, conservative, pre-millennial and dispensational," Dr. Orr said. "It will stand without apology for the great fundamentals of the faith, the complete inspiration of the Bible, the full deity of the Lord Jesus Christ, and for the great challenge to carry the Gospel to the entire world."

GOINGS ON

It's accent on youth at the Service Under the Stars in the drive-in portion of El Dorado Park Community Sunday at 7 p.m., with trumpeters Dan Friberg and Greg O'Haver, winners in the Youth for Christ national program, heading the musical program, and Rev. Bob Kraning directing a challenge to teens. . . The California Christian Citizens Assn. and California Christian League are sponsoring a public meeting at 2:30 p.m. today in Bethany Chapel, 2201 E. Sixth St., in connection with their campaign: "to return the Bible and prayer to our public schools." David Calderwood of San Diego will also speak on what is termed "the plan of some church leaders with the cooperation of federal officers to thrust upon this nation a World Church."

Special services at 9:30 and 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. will observe the 25th anniversary of St. John's United Presbyterian of Compton, which was organized in 1942 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred K. Rapp with a charter membership of 57, and now numbers over 1,550 members. The occasion will also mark the 20th anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. Bruce A. Kurlie, who has also achieved a reputation as a sought-after speaker at young people's conferences. Morning speaker will be Dr. Chester T. Bulley, associate executive secretary of the Los Angeles Presbytery, and evening speaker Dr. T. Franklin Hudson, pastor of a Riverside church, both of whom played prominent roles in the church's early history. . . Orange County's largest Protestant church, Garden Grove Community, 12141 Lewis St., will introduce its fifth minister, Rev. Dr. Raymond E. Beckering, who will be Minister of Family Life, at Sunday services.

Dedication - Anniversary Set by Buena Park Lutherans

Messiah Lutheran Church of Buena Park will dedicate its new $250,000 sanctuary Sunday and simultaneously celebrate its 20th anniversary. Festivities will begin with a 10:30 a.m. door opening ceremony.

Groundbreaking for the sanctuary, chapel and other buildings, tying in to existing buildings at 6625 Dale Ave., was last October, with James Barrett, Construction Co. of Huntington Beach as general contractor. Stained glass windows and a versatile three manual Allen Organ — one of the many memorial gifts — are among features.

Fire Burns Tons of Hay in Dairy

Fire of unknown origin Friday destroyed about 15,000 tons of hay in the S & K Dairy, Santa Fe Springs.

Three Los Angeles County fire units extinguished the blaze, which was spotted by a passing motorist and caused loss estimated at $7,500.

The church was organized in 1947 and its name chosen by a vote taken by members. It now numbers more than 500 communicants, with Rev. Richard G. Schumm pastor since 1959.

Impact on Community, Armageddon, Sunday TV

Members of the Commission on Social Concerns of Grace Methodist Church want to do something about what they feel is the lack of sufficient impact the large Long Beach worshiping community has upon the actual life of the city.

"They aim to find out how the lay folks of all the churches who agree with them can find more effective means for making an outgoing Christian witness in the various areas of day to day living."

Their idea is that the houses of religion tend to be too ingrown, that each church tends to be a "community" in itself, at the expense of bringing to bear the collective Christian weight for betterment in the true community — the entire city.

"We welcome the thinking, and cooperation, of the laity of other churches," says Ray Jansen, a teacher and lay leader at Grace. "We are thinking in interdenominational terms, interfaith for that matter."

Another "mover" in this exploratory beginning is George Garton, who came to Long Beach several years ago and is active on the Grace social concerns group. He is also a member of the national board of directors of the Retired Persons Organization, in which capacity has set up many chapters in northern California, where he previously lived.

The religious community here, he said this week, "has not come close to making its potential contribution."

"There are two ways to go," he commented. "In growing or outreaching. In growing leads to egotism, self concern and self satisfaction. Outreaching leads to brotherly love."

Among many areas where he feels better influences can be brought to bear are "out and out obscene movies along Ocean Boulevard, and improving of race relations."

Jansen and Garton confess to a feeling of disappointment in scanning the agendas of the City Council. "It is so much devoted to technical matters, legal procedures," Jansen says.

"They wonder if there aren't a large number of laymen and women in the churches of Long Beach who feel the same way as the Grace Methodist commission."

AT THE RECENT well attended four-day assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses in Costa Mesa, F. F. Garrett, district supervisor of ministers of the Watchtower Society, addressed himself to what he considers a mistaken notion of the frightening word Armageddon.

"Armageddon, threatening though the name may sound, does not mean the wiping out of the race of mankind," he told the estimated crowd of 17,000 at the Fairgrounds. "The approaching war of Armageddon is, in reality, the fore-runner of the happiest time for mankind in all human history."

—Scoffing, he added, "will not turn aside the war of Armageddon about The Bible speaks."

And finally, he said, a great many good persons will be rescued and come out of the inevitable, and imminent, Armageddon. "Come out to what?" he said. "Come out of an earth in which fear and selfishness will not prevail, but the survivors rescued out of Armageddon will love and help one another as brothers and sisters, adopted by the Lamb of God as their Eternal Father."

Among those who read and interpret the Bible most literally, Witnesses believe events in the troubled world since the start of World War I clearly presage the final tremendous battle — on Earth — between the forces of darkness and light, and that all persons, including those who have died, will then be finally judged. This explains much of the feeling of urgency with which they seek to reach people with their message — what is sometimes called their "hard sell."

THE CHURCH should abandon efforts to reach TV audiences through Sunday morning religious programs, a leading television scriptwriter told Christian communications specialists last week in Montreal.

John Bloch, author of The Man From U.N.C.L.E., The Invaders, The Rogues and Dr. Kildare, told the conference on the performing arts and technological media, held under auspices of the National Council of Churches, that "all the money and energy being channeled into half-hour programming on Sunday morning is a waste."

"It's incestuous," he said, "because you are talking only to yourselves."

"I don't see what would attract unchurched people to church-sponsored programs," he observed bluntly. "Rather, the church should spend some time and money working with writers, producers and directors who put content into prime time evening viewing."

Most of the later, Bloch said, would welcome the support of the church in their efforts to break the "vicious circle" of commercial television.

Most commercial TV, he added, "talks down to people, plays to a very low set of emotions, and takes place in a dream world."

(Did someone shout HEAR! HEAR!?)

WELL, WHETHER Sunday religious programs are wasted or not, allow us to suggest two by CBS this Sunday which certainly sound interesting — "Mennonites: The Peaceful Revolution," a documentary filmed mostly in Elkhart County, Ind., on the "Lamp Unto My Feet" series, and "Man of Conscience," on the late Christian pacifist and civil rights worker A. J. Muste, on the "Look Up and Live" series. Check the times in your TV programs.

WOULD YOU guess that the church attendance is highest in the South? Guess again, if you can believe George Gallup Jr. He directs the American Institute of Public Opinion founded by his father. He also majored in religion at Princeton, did post-graduate work in theology at Oxford, and is a lay reader and Sunday school teacher in the Episcopal Church. He's put out a mimeoed booklet with a lot of information that the Gallup Poll has gathered on religion.

On a typical Sunday last year, he says, 54 per cent of the adults in New England were in church, compared to 45 per cent in the South. The Pacific Coast comes out last with 31 per cent. (However, one guesses Southern California would probably do much better than the entire coast.)

While national church attendance has tapered off somewhat in recent years, from a high of 49 per cent in 1958 to 44 per cent in 1966, it is still well above the pre-World War II level. In 1940, only 37 per cent of the adult population was in church on a typical Sunday.

Other figures of interest — Church attendance is highest in March and April. Among major Protestant denominations, Lutherans are the top church attenders with 43 per cent (Roman Catholics register 68 per cent for Mass each week.) And if you need a few bucks in a hurry next week, tap your neighbor or fellow worker who is an Episcopalian. That is ONE supposition borne out by statistics. They have the highest level of affluence, with 55 per cent in the over $7,000 income bracket. — L.R.

PREPARE NEIGHBORLY EXCHANGE

Rev. Joseph Chaney Jr. (left) of Antioch Baptist Church, and Rev. K. Ross Penny of Trinity Baptist, discuss planned joint meeting of congregations to be held Sunday, Sept. 17, at 7 p.m., in Trinity, 14th Street and Gaviota Avenue. The noted Antioch choir will sing, and Rev. Chaney will bring the message to his fellow Baptists of different skin color. "From the 11th Commandment," he says, "the words of Christ—Love Ye One Another As I Love You." A future joint meeting will be held at Antioch, 1535 Gundry Ave., with Rev. Penny speaking. Says the latter: "We just felt we should know each other better, as neighbors. As Joe here says, in these times it doesn't hurt to sow a little bit of love."

Council Board Faces Issues

ATLANTA — World hunger, the churches' role in the Middle East crisis and an appraisal of explosive issues in international affairs are on the agenda of the National Council of Churches General Board at its fall business meeting here Thursday through Sept. 15.

Presiding at all sessions will be Dr. Arthur S. Fleming, president of the University of Oregon, who is NCC president for the 1966-1969 triennium.

Rev. Dr. Luther A. Weigle, dean emeritus of Yale Divinity School and chairman of the committee which translated the Revised Standard Version of the Bible, will review the first 15 years of the RSV. Says 'Superstructure' Won't Overcome Real Church Faults

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The church is not going to solve anything by putting up a "superstructure" as "mere ecumenical planning will not meet the needs of present day society," a Southerner declared at a national church conference. "The real scandal of Christianity," said Dr. Clarence Jordan, "is not its dividedness but its materialism and its denial of the faith. I cannot see uniting

ENGINEERING GRAD PICKS

CAMPUS WORK

Gary Fredricks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Fredricks of 244 E. Adams St., has gone to Philadelphia to work with that district of the Campus Crusade for Christ International for the next year.

A civil engineering graduate of the University of California, he recently completed seven weeks training for his campus work at Arrowhead Springs, international headquarters for Campus Crusade.

His pastor, Rev. George Norman of Mount Olivet Lutheran Church in Lakewood, comments: "Gary has chosen to devote his life to this work. He could have followed a more lucrative career in civil engineering, but he feels he has been called to this activity."

Survey Sees U.S. Priest Shortage

A clergy distribution study ordered by the U.S. Catholic hierarchy indicates that the church will suffer an increasing shortage of priests over the next few years.

At present, there is one active diocesan priest for every 1,257 Catholics, on a national average. By 1970, the ratio is expected to be one priest to 1,340 Catholics.

two segregated churches without resulting in a bigger monster."

Dr. Jordan, director of Koinonia Farm, an interracial community near Americus, Ga., addressed 1,800 Protestant and Roman Catholic delegates at the National Consultation on the Church in Community Life.

Dr. Jordan said the church needs to re-evaluate itself.

"Men try to remake the church into what they believe it should be, in their own image," he charged. "The church is responsible to God, not mankind. It must be where the action is and champion the causes of the poor and the disenfranchised — such as the Negro American."

It is inconceivable, Dr. Jordan said, that some church members feel they can vote on whether or not a person, of any race or financial status, can join their membership.

"The church should deal with open housing and slums and employment. But it can't say to secular society to take care of the poor unless the church is taking care of the poor," he added.

JEWS MOURN PRIEST

Death of Rev. John Courtney Murray, Roman Catholic scholar prominent in interfaith relationships, was mourned this week by American Jews through this unusual statement by Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum, director of the Interreligious Affairs Dept. of the American Jewish Committee:

"The sudden death of the Rev. John Courtney Murray leaves his many friends and admirers in the Jewish community and among all men of good will in deep sorrow and bereavement. His untimely passing leaves us all bereft of the warm living presence of a unique aristocrat of the intellect and an authentic religious humanist. Father Murray's brilliant scholarship and penetrating insight have enriched profoundly our understanding of democratic pluralism, religious liberty, ecumenical and Jewish-Christian relations."

"In February 1966 Father Murray was chairman of a section of the first Institute on Judaism and Christianity in cooperation with the American Jewish Committee. Throughout that Institute Father Murray demonstrated his rich sensitivity and affirmative understanding of the Biblical, theological and historical ties which bind Christians and Jews together in mutual respect and spiritual solidarity."

"The religious and scholarly communities, indeed the human community, will forever be in Father Murray's debt as much for his active leadership in causes dedicated to interracial justice, civic betterment, and Jewish-Christian understanding as for his monumental contributions to the life of the mind. In the perspective of Jewish tradition, he is to be regarded as a 'high-priest' in keeping with the teaching that a non-Jew who studies Torah is to be equated with the high priest in Israel. May his great soul be linked immortally with the bond of life through the loving memory of his friends within the household of the people of Israel."

McKay Rolls Snake Eyes at Quarterback

By LOEL SCHRADER

It seemed unlikely that in two shakes of the dice USC coach John McKay could roll successive snake-eyes.

Farr TD Sparks Detroit

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Rookie running back Mel Farr and safety Tom Vaughn scored third-period touchdowns for the Detroit Lions Friday night to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 21-7 in a pre-season game.

Detroit finished the exhibition season with a 3-2 record, and St. Louis was 1-4.

Farr scored his tie-breaking touchdown with 1:57 left in the third period on a three-yard run over left guard. Detroit had taken the ball after a punt on the St. Louis 35 and scored five plays later.

The big play was a 24-yard completion by quarterback Milt Plum to Pat Studstill.

St. Louis took the kickoff with 42 seconds remaining in the quarter and on the second play quarterback

Tim Van Galder threw an interception to Vaughn who returned the ball 45 yards for the score.

The Lions had tied the score in the second quarter when John Henderson took a pass from quarterback Karl Sweetan at the 12, bounced off a couple Cardinal defenders and ran into the end zone.

The scoring play covered 34 yards at the end of a 71-yard drive in 11 plays. Farr had picked up 22 of the 71 yards in five running attempts.

The Cardinals scored on their first series of plays in the game as second-year quarterback Jim Hart moved the team 56 yards in seven plays. Hart passed to tight end Jackie Smith for 22 and to rookie flanker Dave Williams for 14.

Ram Notes

The Rams' unknown quantity remains quarterback Steve Spurrier, who has run the club for a total of two of the three games in the preseason. The Cleveland panel since reporting from the College All-Star game, the 4-2, 20-second Heisman Trophy winner from Florida has, however, taken over after a week of regular season games. He has only five returns for a total of 18 yards. Last week he caught a 10-yard pass from the Rams by starting Pete Bellandi. Will Spurrier be the Rams' answer to the Rams' old star, the switch to Spurrier?

The Rams' clutch running back Mike Dennis Friday to make room for defensive tackle Bruce Brown by placing Brown on waivers. The Rams have only four rookies remaining — Wendell Tucker, Green, Schmeckner, Mike Ellison and Keith Webster.

How did the Rams react to the Brown trade? Dennis said he doesn't know what tactics Allen used to get him but they were beautiful. He's a great runner and has the endurance that he needs. I couldn't believe it at first. Not many teams like to help you.

Marion Oatis: "Some people will have to adjust their thinking now. I'm sure they figured it out that without Brown we were out of it. The important thing about the trade was that we didn't have to give up anybody. Detroit must have figured they were out of it this year. We want to build."

How are some of the ex-Rams doing in preseason? Larry Martin McKee's last caught 5 passes for 50 yards for the Vikings while teammate Red Phillips is tied with Paul Blaney for most receptions with 7 for 57 yards. Del Sasser of the Giants has caught 7 for 112 yards in three games. Fourth hour on the line, Steve Heckard of New Orleans has two touchdowns and has the end zone. He was traded to Atlanta for Reggie Casey, is averaging only 1.4 yards after 14 carries for 17 yards. Casey, however, has been more than a adequate as Earl Smith's replacement. Casey has had 14 carries for 47 yards and 2 TDs for the Packers. Jimmy Orr of Colts has had 4 catches for 41 yards. Carroll Dale of Packers has 10 carries for 28 yards and 2 touchdowns. The stands second in yardage with 19 receptions. Fullback Ray McManis has carried 26 times for 109 yards (4.9 avg.).

Sawchuk Signs for $50,000

GUELPH, Ontario (Special) — Veteran goaltender Terry Sawchuk became the first player to sign with the new Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League when he agreed to a two-year pact Friday.

The Kings, one of the NHL expansion clubs, drafted the 38-year-old Sawchuk from Toronto.

General manager Larry Regan announced the signing. Terms were not revealed, but the contract was believed to call for about $50,000 per year.

Sawchuk reported to the Kings' training camp at Guelph but after signing his contract he returned home to Union Lake, Mich., to complete some personal business.

Sawchuk is an 18-year veteran of the NHL and was a standout in last season's league playoffs.

The Kings open serious practice today. Sawchuk will report back Sunday or Monday.

The club opens its season in the Long Beach Arena on Oct. 14.

Vikings, OCC Hold 'Scrum'

Long Beach City College's heralded defense and questionable offense will get their first tests today when the Vikings meet Orange Coast College in an intra-squad game at 2 p.m. on the OCC field.

Coach Paul Chafe has said since the inception of drills last week that his players are progressing ahead of schedule and are anxious for combat. They'll get their chance today.

The scrimmage is scheduled for 2 1/2 hours, with each school maintaining possession of the ball for 10 downs at a time.

Every player off last year's starting defensive squad is returning for the Vikings, but Chafe's offense has a good number of freshmen sprinkled around all-Metro quarterback Bob Stewart.

Chafe has more than a half-dozen promising halfbacks, but all are light on experience. Hopefully, says Chafe, one of two will begin to blossom today.

The Vikings have another squad game next Saturday, then open their regular season on Sept. 23 at home against Los Angeles City College.

U.S. Scores Double-Barrel Net Triumph Over Aussies

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — They call themselves the "steely boys" because both use the new, revolutionary steel rackets.

When the National Tennis Championships began, you could have got 100-1 odds that the two of them wouldn't get to the semifinals. They've both been in the Davis Cup doghouse and neither is pointing to a job for winning back the big trophy.

But they're America's new and surprising hopes today when this aged grass court classic decided who will play for the men's singles crown in Sunday's final. The United States hasn't had a champion since Tony Trabert in 1955.

They are Clark Graebner, 23, bespectacled, scholarly-looking son of a Cleveland dentist, renowned largely as a doubles specialist, and Gene Scott, 29, a Yale graduate, a practicing lawyer on Wall Street who is only a part-time tournament player.

Both pulled staggering upsets in the quarter-finals Friday to give American tennis a shot in the arm that it hasn't had in nearly a decade.

Graebner, seeded seventh, used a crackling service and a pair of strong, halfback legs in winning a three-hour cliffhanger from Roy Emerson of Australia, twice winner of this tournament, 8-6, 3-6, 19-17, 6-1. The third set alone lasted 1 1/2 hours.

Scott, who has played only four tournaments this summer and is ranked 16th nationally, turned back Owen Davidson, the big Australian southpaw 6-3, 8-6, 9-7.

The New York lawyer will need every legal device — plus some — in his semifinal match today. He plays John Newcombe, the Australian who won Wimbledon and is the seeded No. 1 favorite. The 23-year-old Newk topped Bob Hewitt of South Africa 4-6, 6-0, 7-5, 6-3.

Graebner's opponent is the sensational Jan Leschly, 26-year-old Danish drugist who has become the dreaded tournament darkhorse. Leschly, with previous wins over fifth-seeded Cliff Drysdale, Frank Froehling and Thomas Koch, won a five-set backbreaker from Brazil's Ron Barnes 7-9, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 8-6.

Graebner said after his match that he owed his victory to his service.

"With this steel racket, I served much better than I have in a long time," he said. "Also, when I came out for the fifth set, I wasn't as stiff as Emerson."

Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., looks like a cinch to add the American to her Wimbledon women's title. She plays Francoise Durr of France, a backcourt retriever, in the semifinals today. The other semifinal sends second-seeded Ann Haydon low Walker Cup teammates by turning pro Friday. Murphy's switch followed by one day the announcement that Marty Fleckman and Ron Cerrudo were changing to the pro ranks.

THE ARMY said Friday Lt. Charley Johnson will be permitted to travel to St. Louis to play in the Cards NFL opener with the New York Giants Sunday.

Amazing Charley Finley is still at it. Ignoring troubles with his Kansas City Athletic bailplayers, Charlie-O Friday traveled to Seattle to discuss the possibility of moving his disension-rocked club there.

However, he declined to make any comment on either the move or the hearing scheduled for Monday in commissioner William Eckert's office.

Alvin Dark has offered his services on behalf of the Kansas City players for Monday's hearing. Dark was fired last month after a dispute with Finley.

COACH Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State was honored Friday by his players and fellow coaches when the Spartans interrupted their regular football workout to present him with a cake in honor of his 52nd birthday.

NOW THAT the Admirals have left Long Beach, maybe an all-girls football team would be appropriate. Sid Friedman, a Cleveland public relations man, has formed an 18-member, all-girl pro football team which will tour the U.S. this fall and winter playing men's semi-pro teams. Anyone for football?

HUSKY Jack Nicklaus was rated a heavy favorite Friday for the $50,000 first prize in the sixth World Series of Golf which opens over the treacherous 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club Course today.

SCOTLAND'S Jimmy Clark, in a Lotus, topped a field of race drivers who broke the Monza track record Friday in the first trials for Sunday's Grand Prix of Europe. Clark toured the 3-mile lap in one minute, 28.5 seconds, for an average speed of better than 125 mph.

WORLD'S RICHEST THOROUGHBRED RACE

18 Vie for Juicy $371,750 Purse

Associated Press
The Arlington-Washington Futurity, the world's richest thoroughbred race, highlights today's racing program around the country.

The Futurity, at Arlington Park, with a gross purse of $371,750, will be run in two divisions for the first time since its inception in 1962.

Both divisions will have nine colts entered, each with 122 pounds, for the seven furlongs. Each division will be worth $185,875 with the winner receiving $105,875. Second place will be worth $35,000, third, $20,000 and $12,500 for fourth.

Sharing the favorite's role in the first division will be Family Fun and TV commercial, each pegged at 2-1
by the odds-makers. Gin
Rob is next at 3-1.

Exclusive Native, with Cordero riding, along with Vitriolic and Bill Shoemaker, figure to be the horses to beat in the second division.

The Harbor View Farm
ace is listed at 2-1 to Vitriolic's 9-5. Royal Trace, ridden by Buck Thornburg,
at 5-1 will be a threat.
